WAR

Last week the world seemed to be delicately balanced on the fence separating war and peace. Today humanity has a breathing spell. We are allowed to sleep with the assurance that the dawn will not bring news of a disastrous conflict between the nations of the world. We can again listen to our favorite radio programs without the blurring interruptions of an announcer giving us the latest news concerning the situation in Europe, each announcement seeming to bring the world closer to what seemed inevitable.

Dr. A. M. Stickle recently in a chapel talk gave the audience a graphic word panorama of the war situation. The speech held the audience throughout the entire chapel hour. The entire student body and visitors deeply appreciated the fine, clearest explanations of the news.

One thing that Dr. Stickle did not picture and which we cannot picture is the actual scene that war would create. Imagine gas mask drill as a daily performance, picture yourself climbing into bomb-proof shelters as a part of your daily activity, think of having to practice living on concentrated foods for a day or two, then you have some idea what the school boys and girls of Europe have been doing for some time.

Then again use your imagination if you can, and think what it would be like to be awakened in the middle of the night by an air raid alarm, to have the air you breathe to be polluted by poison gas, to live from minute to minute wondering when terror will strike in your town, when the time will come for you to be called to the colors. There you have a peep at what a war would mean.

The nations can truly be thankful that the sound thinking of the rulers of Europe saw a way to avert a war. We Americans should endeavor to do everything possible to support the principles of the only country in the world that does not have bomb-proof cellars in the gardens and where the gas mask is not carried with text books.

FRESHMEN

The mill of education has started at Western again, after a brief pause. Last year the institution turned out of the assembly line about five hundred finished products. This year about six hundred have entered the line.

Freshmen from every part of the country poured into the lines recently for the fast touches. They came from large cities, towns, villages and hamlets, but all with the sole objective of getting an education and better preparing themselves for the future.

The usual gags have been pulled and are forgotten. Some bit on the chapel tickle; some wondered why they should buy the book Library Keys, because they thought the institution hired people to lock and unlock the buildings. Now, however, they are adjusted, and it is hard to tell a newcomer from an upperclassman.

One thing that everyone has commented on this fall is the appearance of the freshmen. The general opinion is that the new class is one of the best-looking groups that have arrived on the Hill in several years. Probably it is due to the fact that the depression is over, or perhaps high schools are doing better preparatory work; but we can say that they have been duly welcomed and seem to be at home.

COURTESY

It takes many traits to make up a man or woman either good or bad. One of the most important of these is courtesy. Courtesy is appreciated by any one at any time.

One of the factors that makes Western students feel at home is the courtesy extended by both students and faculty. If you ask a student why he likes a certain teacher or fellow pupil he will say that the reason is his or her courtesy. He may not use the exact word but it will imply the same meaning.

It seems that it would pay all concerned to be a little more courteous, for after all none can live alone.

PRAYER

One of the most valuable programs held on the Hill is the least heralded—that of prayer meetings. These meetings are held every morning when most of us are still getting ready for the first class.

The prayer services, under the direction of Mr. H. F. McChesney, are attended not only by ministerial students but by others as well.

Too often we are prone to forget the finer things such as religion for something that in the long run may not be so good as we think. Religion has played the greatest part in making our civilization what it is, and has served unflinchingly throughout the centuries as a stabilizer of the race.

MUSIC MORSELS

Jake A.

Evans

The prospects for a big musical year at Western are fine. New members of the band have swelled its ranks to nearly one hundred and ten. Among the freshmen musicians are some who have already obtained laurels in the music world. Billy Falk of Hammond, Indiana, won the National Contest on piano and cornet; Wilburn Baird, Joliet, Ill., ranked No. 1 in the Southern Music Festival on horn; Richard Serogy, West de Pere, Wis., was 4 years Wisconsin state snare drum champion; Bernard Paulson, also from West de Pere, won the Wisconsin festival on clarinet, then proceeded to annex the title in the vocal contest; two southern boys, "Tim" Pierce, bassonist, and J. D. Sheriff, altoist, both from Birmingham, ranked at the top on their respective instruments in the Southern Music Festival; John Warren, Gary, Ind., son of our guest band conductor last year, held the concert mastership of one of the finest high school bands in the nation, Culver Military Academy; Al Bauer, trumpet, and Tommy Jones, horn, both of Hobart, Ind., were members of the famous Father Locke high school band which toured Europe last year.

In addition to these new recruits most of the old members have returned, so it looks as if Western will still have the best band in Kentucky. Orchestra rehearsals are also in progress. The woodwind section is perfectly instrumented with 3 flutes, 2 oboes, 4 clarinets, and 2 bassoons, but the string section suffers as usual from a scarcity of violinists and cellists. Mr. Charles Massinger opened the musical programs of the year with a short program on songs in chapel, Monday the 26th. Aesthetically the opening number Brahms' "One Thing Belonged to the Beast" was the finest. The text from Ecclesiastes has been given an enchanting musical setting. Mr. Massinger's artistic interpretation of the lied was superb. A group of two songs by the modern Italian Composer Castelnuovo-Ledesco followed. Mr. Massinger gave a creditable performance of the songs the text of which are from the pen of William Shakespeare.

The ever popular "Hills of Home" scored a hit with the audience, due to its tender, emotional appeal. This gave Mr. Massinger opportunity to display his ability to produce soft emotional tones. The program was concluded with two popular songs, Dosford's "The World is Mine" and Lohr's "Little Grey Home in the West." Mr. Massinger was accompanied by Mr. Chester Channon, of the music faculty.

Professor Franz J. Strahm, veteran of the music faculty, is very enthusiastic over his piano pupils this year. He tells us that he has better material to work with than he has had during his 28 years of teaching on College Heights. Especially interesting is the fact that many of his pupils were previously taught by his old pupils who now rank among the leading piano teachers of the state. Congratulations to the 36 who comprise his class.

Three graduates in music from Western now hold fine positions as band directors in the Atlanta, Ga., school system: Jimmie Rutan, A. B. '38, Ben Sisk, A. B. '36, and Owen Seitz, A. B. '37. Reports are that in the future there will be additional openings in the systems, and the music supervisor favors Western graduates.

The freshman chapel program on September 16 included a splendid performance of Brahms' D-minor Rhapsody by the adept young pianist Billy Falk. Folk's agility of technique, and expressive interpretation labeled him as one of the finest pianists enrolled at Western. We look forward to more appearances of Folk in the future.

One man-band is becoming numerous. Along with two well known versatile performers, "Doc" Chenoweth and John Faris, who when asked "What do you play?" always reply, "What do you have?" is Bruce Zabinski, a freshman from Gary, Bruno plays with equal ability piano, violin, string bass, drums and tuba.

tacular display at the later football games. The half-time maneuvers will be led by five drum majors, Freeman Tutton, H. J. McNair, Bob Gregory, Margaret Stewart, and Nellie Jacks. All except McNair and Jacks are new faces. Tutton and Gregory are exceptionally skilled in baton twirling and the two of the fairer sex promise to display feminine pluckitude in the ultimate. Nair will perform as commanding drum major.

LIBRARY REPORTS ON ONE HUNDRED BEST BOOKS

Last February the Western Library placed in a special display rack the world's one hundred best books, as selected by the National Council of the Teachers of English. These books were kept on the display rack for the eighteen weeks of the second semester and one week of the June vacation. Close check was kept on the circulation of the books.

The readers of these books included students from all classes, faculty members and some town people. It is interesting to note that the greatest interest was shown in some of the oldest classics.

Books ranking highest in number of times signed out were: "Jane Eyre," by Bronte and "A Tale of Two Cities," by Sinclair Lewis, which were loaned ten times; "The Decameron," and "The Idiot," by Dostoevsky, and "The Trial," by Kafka, which were loaned eight times each; other authors whose works were widely read were: Flaubert, Maugham, Hemingway, Ludwig, Cather, Thackeray, Goldsmith, Tolstoy, Omar Khayyam, Mann, Voltaire, Keats, Cellini, Cabel, Garland, O'Neill and Hawthorne. The books of these authors were loaned from seven to five times during the period.

It is interesting to note that the Bible, designed to be read as living literature, edited by Ernest S. Bates, was checked out seven times during the nineteen weeks.

They will give another company dinner, October 1.

A junior high school chorus has been added to the music program of the Training School. This new chorus has been organized and is under the direction of Miss Rixie Gibbs of the Western music department.

Red And Grey Ready To Swing Out In Coming Season

By Jim Arnold.

For many years the Red and Gray dance orchestra has been in existence at Western and this year they are again prepared to treat the South with a great variety of musical styles and tonal novelties.

They feature such combinations as, four saxes, three trumpets, two trombones, four clarinets, two flutes, four violins and oboe. A piano, bass, guitar and drums make up the rhythm section to back the music of six arrangers, four vocal soloists, a vocal quartet, two one man bands and effective ensemble singing.

Back with the band from last year is found at the piano, Tommy Ayers, '40, musical director, of Hammond, Indiana. Ayers is a concert as well as swing pianist. Succeeding Jimmie Rutan in the manager position is Doc Chenoweth, '39, playing all instruments in the band, a professional musician of fourteen years experience. Another member with fourteen years professional experience behind him is George Luce, '39, plays trumpet, piano, and arranges. Rex Oaten, '39, of Hopkinsville, plays trombone, violin and sings. From Covington, comes Bob Walker, '40, Walker plays alto and tenor sax, guitar and does vocals. At tenor sax is Nick Unguar, '40, of East Chicago, also plays violin and sings. Bruce McEuen, '41, Owensboro, plays alto and tenor sax and clarinet.

Taking Jimmie Rutan's place at drums is Homer Arheger, '39, of New Richmond, Wisconsin. The home town boy playing both brass and string bass, flute, violin and bassoon is John Ferris, '39. The only new man in this year's band is Al Bauer, '42, of Hobart, Indiana. He is filling the vacancy made by Don Krohl, in the first trumpet chair.

COMPLETION OF MUSIC HALL SEEN SOON

To Be Most Up-To-Date Music Building In State

Nearing completion is Western's new music hall. Erected at a cost of $65,000 and requiring almost a year and a half of work, the new building, according to Mr. L. T. Smith, should be ready for possession by the beginning of the second semester.

The original conception of the building was that of Dr. R. D. Perry; this re-worked conception by Architect Ingram and Dr. Vincent's proposed third floor addition has been realized. Thick stone walls, in some places approaching a thickness of thirty inches, finished with acoustical plaster, and ceilings with celotex makes the rooms practically soundproof.

On the first floor will be found Dr. Perry's office, a large band and orchestra room, two studios, three classrooms and fourteen practice rooms. The second floor boasts a large chorus room, a voice studio and one classroom. Faculty offices, including that of the head of the department, Dr. Vincent, one studio, four classrooms, and a large storage room are found on the third floor. In the basement is a large loading platform.

The new structure is thought by the music faculty to be the finest and most modern music building in the state. The large band and orchestra room will have lockers for all the instruments and the seats will be tiered, descending toward the center and conductor's rostrum. Over one-hundred racks are being made by the industrial arts department.

Cleo Hazelp spent the week-end of September 24-25, with her sister in Lafayette.

MURPHY MADE MAYOR BY VILLAGERS

Waddell Murphy, ace Western fullback from Lancaster has been installed as mayor of the Village, athletic settlement on the Western campus between the stadium and the practice field.

A total of 54 Western athletes are house in the Village, which is self governing, with Coach Ed Stansbury, who is one of the Village citizens, acting as faculty advisor.

There are nine cottages remaining in the Village, which was once known as Cherrytown. Cherrytown was constructed early in the history of Western through the efforts of the late Dr. H. H. Cherry for the benefit of students who could not afford higher rent being charged in Bowling Green's residential section during the oil boom. Many of the little houses have been razed to make room for the expansion of the college. The remaining few houses afford an opportunity of keeping the athletes in one group.

Councilmen to serve with Murphy for the school year include: Joe Gill, senior; Nick Latkovic, junior; Vernon (Duke) Delancy, sophomore; and Bemo Wonsowicz, freshman.

Minor infractions of Village regulations will be tried before the mayor and his council and penalties will be handed down by the governing group.

Martha Burkholder, of Crofton, was the guest of Rachel Croft and Conway McMullen at West Hall last week-end.
